FIRST ARRESTS IN H. C. L. FIGHT COMING SOON

Washington, Aug. 11.—The first arrests in the department of justice fight on food hoarders and profiteers were expected today. With practically every agent of the department engaged in rounding up evidence upon which district attorneys throughout the country can base prosecutions, and with the machinery of the wartime food administration revived to cope with the situation, scores of violators of the food control act will fall this week into the net that has been drawn tightly around them, officials of the department said.

In the meantime congress was ready to proceed with consideration of the president's recommendations to bring down the cost of living. It was evident that all of these recommendations would not have plain sailing and that they would be made the subject of spirited debate before they are finally enacted. Opposition has developed in the house to the proposal that commodities be stamped with the price paid the producer and this opposition was expected to break forth tomorrow when hearings are opened by the house agriculture committee on the cold storage bill sponsored by Rep. Hutchinson, of New Jersey. Also the recommendation for an extension of the food control act was not to get through the senate agriculture committee without a battle, Senator Grona, chairman of the committee, has called a meeting for tomorrow, when the work of grappling with the president's recommendations will be started and Senator Cummins, chairman of the interstate commerce committee today will name a sub-committee to be charged with the drafting of legislation covering the white house proposals.

The house interstate and foreign commerce committee was to decide today whether to continue hearings on the Plumb plan for government ownership and tripartite operation of the railroads, or to devote its entire time for the present to consideration of cost of living legislation.

The food question seemed in a fair way of supplanting the treaty of Versailles in debates on the floor of the senate, for Senator Reed, of Missouri, and Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, announced that they would speak on the subject today and others were expected to follow their example.

MEN WHO WILL HANDLE NEW YORK CITY'S ARMY FOOD SUPPLY.

In an effort to cut the high prices of food in New York, city authorities have purchased large stores of army foodstuffs. The food will be sold at cost price in the schools, armories, fire houses and police stations of the city. Bonded city employees will supervise the sales. Mainly through the efforts of the three prominent New Yorkers shown here this big slam at the food profiteers was made possible. William W. Smith, Deputy Market Commissioner, will receive and distribute the food delivered by the Army. Dr. Jonathan Day, Commissioner of Markets, with the assistance of the Department of Health, is arranging for the sales and the inspection of the meats. William F. Mulry, of the Department of Markets, has charge of arranging the salesrooms throughout the city.

BEWARE OF GERMS.

Columbus, O., Aug. 11.—The state board of health has sent out a warning to people taking vacations to beware of improper food, impure drinking water and unsanitary bathing places. The large number of deaths from typhoid during the vacation period is cited as the cause of the warning.

The department points out that the state "threw away" $250,000 in July on typhoid fever because of improper precaution.

SAYS IT IS INSULT TO ALL FARMERS

Cleveland, Aug. 11.—Characterizing the arrest and detention in the county jail of H. W. Ingersoll, president and six other officials of the Ohio Farmers Co-Operative Milk Company, as an "insult to every farmer in the state," L. J. Taber of Barnesville, master of the Ohio State Grange, in a telegram to County Prosecutor Doerflinger charges him with "turning prosecution into persecution."

At the same time he telegraphed President Ingersoll of the milk producers organization that "the moral and financial strength of organized agriculture" is behind him. He told Ingersoll that he should be punished if he had violated the laws but declared that the Grangers "look upon this as a test case to determine whether the farmer has the right to an organized voice in setting the price of product of his labor."

The Grange had sent copies of the telegrams to Governor Cox appealing that no action be taken that would so arouse farmers that they would diminish the flow of milk and food to the cities.

CHIEF OF POLICE OF CANTON SUSPENDED

Canton, O., Aug. 11.—Mayor Charles E. Poorman announced at midnight Saturday that he had suspended Chief of Police C. N. Riblet, for failure to enforce the prohibition laws and ordinances of the city. The suspension followed the publication in a local paper of the names and addresses of six places where it is alleged intoxicating liquor is sold. Riblet announces that he will fight the mayor's order.

HEADS OF THE "BIG FIVE" PACKING CONCERNS TO BE CALLED IN GOVERNMENT FOOD INQUIRY.

In an effort to determine the methods used in controlling the meatpacking industry and price-fixing of foodstuffs, Attorney General Palmer has ordered an investigation of the "Big Five" packing concerns. The heads of the packing concerns will be called in the inquiry. E. A. Cudahy, head of Cudahy & Co.; Nelson Morris, head of Morris & Co.; J. Ogden Armour, head of Armour & Co.; Thomas E. Wilson, head of Wilson & Co., and Louis F. Swift, who heads Swift & Co. Prosecutions will result on the findings of the inquiry.

PLUMB PLAN IS CONDEMNED BY POMERENE

Washington, Aug. 11.—Severe condemnation of the plan of railroad ownership advocated by the railroad brotherhoods, known as the Plumb plan, was voiced by Senator Atlee Pomerene, of Ohio, Democrat, in a letter sent to the Ohio railroad men.

Senator Pomerene's letter was in reply to a communication from a committee composed of James C. Harkins, Frank Spicer, J. W. McDonald, H. E. Wright, G. R. Stephenson and S. T. Hamilton, representing the Hocking Valley Federated Systems No. 51, with headquarters in Columbus. Writing to the Senator, they said that "no doubt he would be pleased to know of the interest their membership is manifesting in the masses of the public."

"The Plumb plan," Senator Pomerene said in his reply, "is the most vicious piece of legislation that has been presented to Congress since I have been in the senate."

"I would feel as though I were contributing to the ruin, not only of the transportation system of the country, but to its financial and industrial breakdown, if I voted for it. It would lead not only to the ruin of the entire nation, but to that of every railroad as well."

"The Plumb plan out-Harrimans in its palmy days. The public does not desire to be 'skinned' but if it must be 'skinned' it will make little difference whether it is by Wall Street or by the methods provided for in the proposed Plumb plan. My friends, this Plumb plan spells ruin for beloved America!"

"Who were the representatives and delegates who were able at one sitting to understand the Plumb plan and advise as to what should be done in the interests of the 'masses of the public'?"

Were they chosen by the masses' to represent them?

"Are you quite sure that when the Plumb plan was devised it was in the interests of the 'masses'? If so, how does it happen that the bill is presented by the Brotherhoods and their associates alone? Why were not the interests of the general public consulted?"

"If the Plumb plan is sound economically and is for the interests of the 'masses,' why do you not suggest that similar legislation be adopted whereby all public utilities, including waterworks and electric lights, gas and heating plants be purchased and turned over to their employees and operators respectively?"

"If it is sound and in the interests of the 'masses,' why do you not suggest that all coal, iron and copper mines, manufacturing and industrial plants, stores, banks and farms be purchased by the Government and turned over to the employees in the same way?"

"My friends, permit me to say the Plumb plan has nothing akin to it out side of the Bolsheviki, Russia. It is worse than socialism. Socialism contemplates the public ownership of property, to be controlled and operated by the public for the public. The Plumb plan contemplates the public ownership of the railroads for a class. "When your representatives come to Washington and ask not only for this increase in wage, but demand that Congress buy these properties and turn them over to the operating corporation, I say as one American to another that it is neither fair nor American for them to insinuate revolution as they have before the House Interstate Commerce Committee, unless their demands are granted."

As Senator I shall always be open to conviction, but never yet have I yielded to a threat and I never will."

The Indiana Congressional delegation is united against the Plumb plan.

DEMAND MADE THAT FESS SUPPORT THE PLUMB RAILWAY PLAN

Washington, Aug. 11.—The President's ringing declaration that those who employ coercive measure "only prepare their own destruction," has met with unqualified approval by Republican and Democratic Senators and Representatives.

In support of charges that heads of railroad organizations are using veiled threats, Representative S. D. Fess, of Ohio, Republican, today made public a letter received by him demanding his support of the Plumb measure.

The letter to Fess was signed by H. E. Willis, assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; P. J. McNamara, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; W. M. Clark, vice-president of the Order of Railway Conductors; W. N. Doak, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; William C. Roberts, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor and N. P. Alifas, legislative representative of the International Association of Machinists.

"Congress must legislate in the interest of the people at large," said Fess, "and not reflect class interest. The President's utterance against legislation under threat was a real American utterance. We need courageous leadership on behalf of all without special regard for class. It gives promise that there will be no trucking on behalf of any selfish interest and that law and order will be respected."

Careful inquiry fails to reveal that any Ohio member of congress is favorable to the Plumb plan or will vote for it.

WHISKEY WORTH $4,800 GRABBED

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 11.—Four Clevelanders today faced charges of transporting liquor in interstate commerce following their arrest at Ash-tabula while bringing a caravan carrying $4,800 worth of whiskey into Ohio from Erie, Pa. They had 600 quarts for which they expected to receive $8.00 each.

PRINCE NEARS AMERICA.

St. Johns, N. F., Aug. 11.—The British battleship Renown, bearing the Prince of Wales to America, arrived off Conception Bay early today, escorted by the cruisers Dauntless and Dragon. Preparations have been made for the prince's reception here tomorrow.

DISCUSS COUNTY HOME BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

Behind closed doors, after a newspaper representative had been requested to leave, questions affecting the Greene County Children's Home, were discussed at a meeting at the Business Men's Club called by representatives of the State Board of Charities, Saturday afternoon.

C. R. Williams of the State Board of Charities, and Miss Atkinson, a visitor from the state board, were present. Trustees of the county home, the county commissioners, members of the social service board, the board of county visitors, Judge J. C. Marshall, of the juvenile court, Superintendent J. R. Patterson and Jacob Kany, president of the city board of education, and a representative from the Xenia township board of education were there at the request of Mr. Williams and Miss Atkinson.

Although Chairman O. E. Bradfute presiding at the meeting as president of the board of trustees of the county home said that the local people had no objections to the meeting being given publicity, and that they had "nothing to conceal" Mr. Williams of the state board succeeded in excluding a newspaper representative by announcing that many things to be discussed "might be misunderstood if they were given to the public at this time."

The Gazette and Republican reporter, at the suggestion of Miss Atkinson, was allowed to remain while the matter of abolishing the school at the county home, and permitting the children who are cared for at the institution to attend the city schools was discussed.

It was declared that the almost complete isolation from others of their kind, which is obtained when the children of an institution are not permitted to mingle with other young people, is detrimental to their best interests, and that it hinders them in their efforts to mingle in society after leaving the institution. Also it was set forth that the majority of county homes in the state are now following the plan of sending the children to the public schools.

Superintendent Patterson said that the 25 or 30 children of school age at the home could be readily absorbed into the city schools. Mr. Kany endorsed the plan of sending them to the public schools. The representative of the Xenia township school board, in which district the county home school is situated, said that while he could speak only personally, he believed that his board would not oppose the plan to abolish the school at the home. No action was taken in the matter.

As the hint had been given to them gently by Mr. Williams that their presence would no longer be necessary after the school discussion was ended, the three school men left the room when the newspaper representative departed.

GREAT FINANCIER DIES LEAVING ESTATE WORTH THREE HUNDRED MILLIONS

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 11.—Andrew Carnegie, one of the world's most prominent financiers, steel magnate and philanthropist, died at 7:10 a. m. today at his summer home "Shadow Brook" of bronchial pneumonia. He had been ill but three days and the end was entirely unexpected.

Had Mr. Carnegie lived until Nov. 25 next, he would have been 84 years old. At his bedside at the time of death were Mrs. Carnegie, his private secretary, John Boynston, the family physician, the members of his home staff. Mrs. Roswell Miller, his daughter, was not present.

Mr. Carnegie had been enjoying the summer in the Berkshire hills, spending most of his time at his favorite outdoor pastime—fishing. Three days ago he was stricken with a cold and it rapidly developed into pneumonia. His condition, however, did not become alarming until last night.

News of Mr. Carnegie's illness was not known among any but the family circle.

Mr. Carnegie was one of the noted "84 trio" summering here, the others being Chauncey M. Depew and Chandler Robbins.

Carnegie was greatly interested in the management of his estate—Shadow Brook—but spent much time this summer fishing in Lake Mahkeennac, bordering his estate.

New York, Aug. 11.—The passing of one of the greatest and certainly the most picturesque of the world financiers at his Massachusetts summer home today was followed by much speculation as to what will become of the Carnegie fortune, variously estimated at between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000.

Andrew Carnegie's wife, who was Louise Whitfield, of New York, survives him. He leaves only one child, Margaret, who was married recently to Roswell Miller, a young reserve officer in the United States navy. None of the iron master's associates professed to know today what provisions be made for them in his will, though at the time of the wedding Margaret Carnegie was called the "world's richest heiress."

FUTURE OF HUNGARY UP TO THE ASSEMBLY IGNORES SIGNALS AND FIVE KILLED

BY LUCIEN ARTHUR JONES.

Budapest, Aug. 10.—(Delayed)—The future form of government for Hungary will depend upon the national assembly, according to a declaration made today by Archduke Joseph, head of the regime now in power.

The archduke received me at the foreign office. He is a middle-aged man of simple appearance and dressed quietly even to the verge of shabbiness. He gave the impression of one anxious to help his country out of its difficulties.

"I accepted the post offered me from motives of patriotism," said Joseph. "The time has come for all Hungarians to endeavor to put their country on a new footing so that it may become strong and powerful again."

Asked if the monarchy would be established, the archduke replied:

"I cannot say what the result will be. It is for the national assembly to say what we all shall do. We are now preparing for general elections to be held in six or eight weeks time. The ballot will be conducted on democratic principles, universal suffrage being granted to all over 24 years of age. Our only hope is to live in close friendship with the entente."

Lawton, Mich., Aug. 11.—Ignoring warning signals from a flagman, Hy-mand Pollaki, 50, drove his automobile on the railroad tracks in front of a fast mail train at a crossing here late yesterday. Five persons were instantly killed as a result. Pollaki, his nephew, Arthur, aged 5, son of Samuel Pollaki of Chicago, Mrs. Rosa Silver-steen and her two daughters, Irene, 11, and Beatrice, 7, were the victims.

DEMPESEY UNDERGOES SURGICAL OPERATION

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 11.—Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey left a local hospital at noon after having an operation performed Saturday on his ear for the removal of an ulcer. Dempsey, who is appearing at a local circus refused to take an anesthetic and stood the operation without a tremor.

AUTOISTS THANKFUL FOR GOOD ROAD SIGNS

County Road Superintendent Grove has placed markers at many highway intersections. These in addition to the signs placed on telephone poles by the state authorities, giving name and number of road, are of great aid to autoists, saving the time and trouble of stopping to make inquiry.—Washington, C. The local investigation into the soaring prices of foodstuffs and other commodities commenced Monday morning when the grand jury called at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Harry D. Smith began its task of securing information to determine whether illegal combinations to keep up prices exist in Greene county.

Whether or not the probing body obtains information which will justify indictments for violation of the Valentine anti-trust act being returned, the results of the probe will be placed in the hands of the attorney general to aid him in the state wide inquiry to fix responsibility for the unwarranted high prices of the necessities of life.

The regular grand jury for the May term of court, which had not been finally discharged was recalled for the probe, but five of the regular members, business men and farmers, were excused from serving, after they had shown the court that it would work hardship upon them to be away from their business for the five days or more that the grand jury will be in session. The vacancies on the jury were filled by the sheriff. T. H. Zell will continue to serve as foreman of the jury, for which place he was named when the body convened the first time last spring for the regular work.

RUNAWAY TEAM CAUSE OF YOUNG LAD'S DEATH

Stanley Straley, 12 year old son of Mrs. Lawrence LeValley, was killed Saturday morning, when a team of horses ran away on the farm of his step-father, in Paulding county. The lad was a son of the late Frank Straley, whose home was at Stringtown, this county, where the boy was born.

A telephone message giving news of the tragedy was received by Greene county relatives Saturday afternoon and through a misinterpretation of the message, it was supposed that Lawrence LeValley was the victim of the accident. His brother Daniel LeValley left at once for Paulding county. The boy's burial took place in Paulding county Monday.

Judge C. H. Kyle read and explained to the jurors the sections of the Valentine anti-trust act by which they are to be governed in making their investigations under the direction of Prosecuting Attorney Smith. He explained that the law is very specific, and that while there is not an opportunity in this county, where there are no cold storage warehouses to show the hoarding of food and the existence of combinations to illegally boost prices, that there might be in larger places, yet any combination of dealers for the same purpose is a violation of the law.

The grand jury went into session about 10:30, and occupied the forenoon with Prosecuting Attorney Smith outlining a plan of procedure and deciding which subjects to investigate first. It was decided that fruits and vegetables would be given attention at the outset, because local dealers could be called before the body immediately at the afternoon session.

At noon Sheriff Funderburg issued subpoenas for the following dealers: H. E. Schmidt and Henry Fetz, grocers; Jacob Hyman, Abe Hyman and Frank Thompson, fruit and vegetable dealers.

Prosecuting Attorney Smith said that from day to day as the inquiry proceeds, additional dealers, farmers, produce men, milk dealers, stock men and so on will be called before the investigating body.

Coal will also come in for its share of the probe the attorney general having sent out instructions to prosecutors to include this commodity in their investigations.

RACE HORSES ARE ALL SHIPPED AWAY

Practically all of the race horses which were at the Fair Grounds during the Greene County Fair last week, had been shipped to other fairs and racing meets by Monday morning.

Owing to the plan exercised by the Board this year in having no entry fee, instead of increasing the size of the purses, there were a greater number of horses than usual entered at the Fair this year, more of the drivers being willing to take a chance and enter when there was no fee to be paid.

Because of the freight tie-up the majority of the horses shipped out of here went by truck. Big trucks carrying as many as four horses, sulkeys and equipment were used in transporting the speedsters to Springfield, Washington C. H., and Carthage where fairs will be held this week and to other racing meets. The trucks were worked all day Sunday getting the horses out of the city.

The war-time plan exercised by the Fayette County Fair Board last year in only holding two days of Fair, will again be in practice this year, and the Fair at Washington C. H. will be held on Thursday and Friday. The Fayette Fair Board found by their system last year that there were much larger crowds when the two day session was held and so they did not revert to the four day plan again this year.

Attorney Frank L. Johnson, who started the horses at Jamestown two weeks ago, will also get them away at Washington and will go up there Thursday for the races. Starter Stephen G. Phillips, who handled the Greene County Fair races last week, has been retained to start them at Springfield. There will be four days of races at the Clark County Fair and Mr. Phillips will go up Tuesday morning for the events.

THE "BLUES" Caused by Acid-Stomach

Millions of people who worry, are despondent, have spells of mental depression, feel blue and are often melancholy, believe that these conditions are due to outside influences over which they have little or no control. Nearly always, however, they can be traced to an internal source—acid-stomach. Nor is it to be wondered at. Acid-stomach, beginning with such well defined symptoms as indigestion, belching, heartburn, bloating, etc., will, if not checked in time affect to some degree or other all the vital organs. The nervous system becomes deranged, digestion suffers. The blood is impoverished. Health and strength are undermined. The victim of acid-stomach, although he may not know the cause of his ailments, feels his hope, courage, ambition and energy slipping. And truly life is dark—not worth much to the man or woman who has acid-stomach.

Get rid of it! Don't let acid-stomach hold you back, wreck your health, make your days miserable, make you a victim of the "blues" and gloomy thoughts! There is a marvelous modern remedy called EATONIC that brings out such quick relief from your stomach miseries—sets your stomach to rights—makes it strong, cool, sweet and comfortable. Helps you get back your strength, vigor, vitality, enthusiasm and good cheer. So many thousands upon thousands of sufferers have used EATONIC with such marvellously helpful results that we are sure you will feel the same way if you will just give it a trial. Get a big 50 cent box of EATONIC—the most delicious tablets that you eat like a bit of candy—from your druggist today. He will return your money if results are not even more than you expect.

XENIA STRIKERS BACK AT WORK

Striking machinists, boiler makers and engine inspectors employed by the Pennsylvania railroad company here, returned to work Sunday morning after a four day walk out.

The men returned to work as soon as they received orders to do so from the headquarters in Columbus in accordance with the general return of the strikers all over the country to their positions. The real motive back of the return to their jobs was the statement of President Wilson that there would be nothing done with regard to fulfilling their demands until they had returned to work.

About a dozen local employees were on strike.

W. CLIFF LONG OF WASHINGTON, D. C., PASSES AWAY SUNDAY

After an illness of nine months' duration from Bright's disease and heart trouble William Clifford Long, of Washington, D. C., former Xenian, and one of the best known men in the nation's capital died at his home in Washington Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Long was born in Xenia a little more than 50 years ago, and was the son of the late William Long, and Mrs. Fannie Long, now living in Washington. He went to Washington when he was a young man, and soon became well known in the circle of prominent men, politicians, business men and others who are leaders of affairs in the nation's capital.

For years he had been in the automobile business in which he was very successful, and he had accumulated a comfortable fortune. Generous to a fault, whole souled, likable, and a friend who was true as steel, who drew about himself a group of warm admirers in this city as well as in Washington, and news of his death was received here with the keenest regret. To his mother, and his only brother Everett, and the latter's family, all of whom live in Washington, he was a most loving son and brother. With no children of his own, he lavished affection upon his four nephews who were the objects of his constant generosity.

He is survived by his wife, who was a Washington girl, his mother, and brother, Everett.

His burial will take place in beautiful Arlington cemetery.

CONDITIONS AT WILBERFORCE TO BE INVESTIGATED

Representative W. B. Bryson of this city has been appointed as a member of a legislative committee which will investigate conditions and suggested improvements at Wilberforce University meeting here Aug. 19, with the state trustees of the University where three days will be passed in sessions.

The legislative committee is headed by Senator Robert J. O'Brien of Hamilton, as chairman and Senators D. A. Liggett of Crawford county and T. M. Morris of Cleveland, and Representatives R. M. Ellingslie, Butler county, A. Lee Beatty, Hamilton county and W. B. Bryson of Greene county.

President W. S. Scarborough of the University said Monday that no improvements or suggestions had been made to the investigating committee as yet, but that the work of the committee was rather to find out the needs of the institutions and to learn of the improvements necessary for the colored school. President Scarborough said he would prepare a list of suggestions this week to present to the investigating committee and have them look into them, when they visit the institution.

During this investigation there will be no pupils in the university as the autumn semester does not open until September. During that month the investigating committee will spend three days at the university visiting classes. By request of Senator O'Brien, chairman of the committee, a colored stenographer will act with the committee.

BIBLE CONFERENCE OPENS ON SUNDAY

The Xenia Bible Conference in the big tent on the Seminary grounds got well launched yesterday.

Two big crowds and two great speakers featured opening day.

At the three o'clock service Dr. Robert McWatt Russell, of Moody Bible Institute, spoke on Prayer. Two foundations for successful prayer are character and knowledge. One must be right with God if his prayers are to take hold. More than that the person must have an intimate knowledge of the laws governing successful prayer. One characteristic epigram of the speaker was "the promises of God constitute the molds into which we pour our prayer thought."

At the eight o'clock hour Dr. Russell again gripped a great crowd which overflowed the tent and lapped out over the adjacent lawn.

The vesper service was in charge of Dr. Frank N. Palmer, the popular Bible teacher of Winona Lake, Ind. The basis of Dr. Palmer's address was the passage Isaiah 26:3 "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee because he trusteth in thee." The speaker demonstrated that scientific agriculture had no more increased the yield of the field than scientific prayer had multiplied the fruitage of intercession.

Dr. Palmer made a magnificent impression on his large audience and will continue his Bible hour every day this week at three o'clock.

The program Tuesday in addition to Dr. Palmer includes Prof. O. M. Buck on Missions at 2 p. m. Rev. J. H. White, D. D., at 4 p. m. Mr. Frank L. Brown, the great Sabbath School expert, at 7 p. m. and Dr. Scott McBride the leader of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois, at 8 p. m.

Monday night the vesper service will be at 7 o'clock in charge of Rev. D. L. McBride, of Dayton while Fred C. MacMillan, the big business man of Des Moines, Iowa, will speak on Soul Winning at 8.

ALL MUST SUPPORT LEAGUE OF NATIONS

The Covenant of the League of Nations will create a situation which will at least greatly restrict and lessen the chances of war between nations. Disputes between individuals are settled by our courts and we assume as a matter of course that no one shall turn to physical force. The present war has brought before mankind, more vividly than anything else in the history, the folly and waste and crime of war. We see its terrible suffering. All civilized mankind will struggle for years to come under the burdens of this war. With our advance in education, with our means of disseminating information, we certainly have reached the point where public judgment should support an understanding between nations that tends to throw up the barriers in the path of forces gathering for war.

That the covenant of the League of Nations itself presents a real constructive method which undoubtedly will greatly tend to restrict war must be admitted by all. As such, all should give it help and support.

NOW HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE MR. WILSON?

Probably no President of the United States ever found himself confronting at one time such a series of dilemmas as surround Woodrow Wilson today. The twin tempests of economic unrest and political discord which have been sweeping Washington in great fury for more than a week past have centered at last about his head. The President faces not a single crisis, but a succession of crises, each one heavily laden with the possibilities of serious trouble.

First of all the President finds the entire people of the United States clamoring at the White House gates in demand that something be done at once to stay the ruthless hand of the food profiteer and to bring down the high cost of living. He has laid his plans before Congress and must ask for new legislation. To do otherwise would be to admit that means have existed for coping with the cost of living and have not been employed by his administration.

Secondly, the President found that Congress had turned squarely upon him and his railroad administration responsibility for meeting the immediate demands of the railway unions for increased wages and averting a threatened nation-wide strike. The President was told he had the power to raise rates if necessary to meet the advance in wages and it was for him and his immediate advisers to determine the right course to pursue.

Thirdly, the President will find that soon he must take sides for or against the plan of organized labor to "nationalize" the railroads as the first step toward a nationalization, or socialization, of all public utilities and basic industries. Democrats in Congress generally are opposed to the plan, but they are likely to keep rather quiet until the President indicates where he stands. The labor leaders assert their plan merely carries into effect some of Mr. Wilson's often expressed ideals for democracy and the working man.

In the fourth place the President finds himself confronted with a crisis in his fight for the ratification of the treaty of peace and the acceptance of the league of nations without modification or change of any character. The situation in the Senate is getting away from the administration again. It is freely predicted in Washington that unless the President brings himself to a frame of mind to accept in the near future a series of satisfactory reservations, the treaty may eventually fail of ratification.

We are all in the same boat. Woodrow Wilson is our President. The burdens he is carrying are our burdens. He must have our sincere sympathy, and should have the prayers of the nation for God's blessing and guidance in his great tasks. We are in the midst of a great national crisis, and should realize it, and feel deep concern that "government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

THE SHANTUNG MUDDLE.

President Wilson is in sharp conflict with his secretary of state, Mr. Lansing, as to the Shantung arrangement effected at Paris. Virtually every Republican and Democratic senator who has discussed the matter with the President has quoted him as saying it was absolutely necessary to turn the German rights in China over to Japan to induce Japan to sign the treaty and to come into the league of nations.

Mr. Lansing stated to the Senate committee on foreign relations that he knew little or nothing about the league of nations, but he was convinced Japan would have signed the treaty if Shantung had been denied to her. "China also would have signed," he said, and the treaty would have gained a signatory power instead of losing one.

The placing of entire responsibility on President Wilson for the Shantung decision by Mr. Lansing and the secretary's further testimony indicating that Mr. Wilson was virtually the entire American delegation in himself have tended to stiffen the opposition to the treaty and to make the course of its friends the harder.

SANDRA THE JEALOUS

BY JANE PHELPS.

SANDRA RESPECTS HER HUSBAND'S WISHES.
CHAPTER XXVII.

We were rather early, out the place soon filled up. The music was delightful, and I scarcely could keep my feet still. Soon people commenced to dance. As I never had seen dancing in the day-time, I was so interested in watching them that I almost forgot to eat, or that I was supposed to talk to the others.

"We will have a turn as soon as we finish," Barrett Edmonds said, as he noticed my interest. Then he turned to Mrs. Sloane: "Mrs. Graham is a wonderful dancer, as light as thistle-down."

I blushed at his praise, but said regretfully:

"I won't dance today, thank you."

"Why not?" it was Alice Sloane who asked the question. "Everybody dances at Rappelye's."

Barrett looked keenly at me.

"Really, do you mean that you will not dance?"

"Really I mean it," then I explained, stammering a little: "Mr. Graham does not like me to dance in a public place."

"What's the matter—afraid he'll lose you?" Alice asked, but Barrett made no remark.

"Perhaps!" I tried to say it brightly, but I failed. It seemed that I never had wanted to do anything so badly in my life as I wanted to dance with Barrett Edmonds.

"You won't mind if Barry and I do?"

"No indeed! I shall love to watch you," which was quite true. I loved to watch people dance. That is if they were graceful. And I knew that both Alice Sloane and Barrett were.

When we had finished they rose and with a laughing apology left me alone.

"Not dancing, Mrs. Graham?" I looked around at the voice and it was that fat Mr. Leveredge. I hoped he wouldn't sit down, but he did, saying: "It's too bad to leave you alone. Shall we take a turn?"

"No, thank you, I'm not dancing," I replied glad that I could say so honestly, as I recalled Everett's desire that I treat this man nicely because of their business relations—and almost reconciled to not being able to dance with Barrett when I remembered how Mr. Leveredge trod on my toes and how miserable he made me when I danced with him at Mrs. Norton's.

"Not dancing?" in surprise. Then "I thought you were a devotee of that particular indoor sport."

"I do love to dance. But Mr. Graham does not approve of my dancing in public places."

"And like a good wife you refrain!" Graham is getting mighty particular, but I don't know that I blame him. You are too attractive, too noticeable with that wonderful hair to let out out alone. I am surprised that you allow you to lunch without him."

I was on the point of telling him that Everett was away, and that it was my first luncheon without him in a public place. But his tone was rather nasty, and I just kept it to myself. He could think what he pleased.

He chatted a moment with Alice and Barrett, said something he thought facetious about my being such a demure little wife, then returned to his own table, just a little ways from us. My back had been toward him which accounted for the fact that I had not seen him until he spoke to me.

We had coffee and then Barrett and Alice danced again. I was afraid Mr. Leveredge would come over again, but he didn't. When the music was soft I distinctly heard him say to his companion, a man of about his own age:

"Yes, Graham's second wife. Looks enough like the first one to be her sister. That one led him a pretty dance. I can't quite make this second one out. She's awfully young and unsophisticated, and he's pretty strict with her I imagine. She wouldn't dance because he didn't want her to. The first one would have danced all the afternoon. But she was a peach. There wasn't a man in our crowd that wouldn't have crawled on his hands and knees for Leola Graham. She was the most fascinating creature I ever have seen. No wonder he loved her and was so insanely jealous of her—I never thought he would marry again."

"Wasn't there some gossip about him and Irene Alston?"

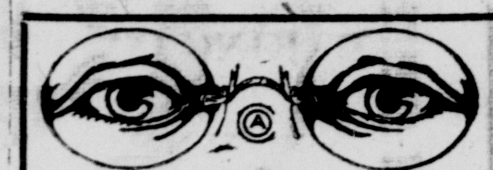

"Yes. Everyone thought if he ever married, she would be the second Mrs. Graham. But—well, she's not young, and I guess Graham is ready to settle down with a family. It looks like it to me. Marrying that child. He is—just then the music swelled louder and I could catch nothing more altho I listened intently."

Was I never to get away from that Leola, that first Mrs. Graham? A fierce jealousy of her, her influence over Everett, her ability to do as she pleased, possessed me. I was his wife just as much as she had been, and I hardly dared make a move for fear of displeasing him. Again I muttered as I always did when thinking of her:

"It isn't fair! I won't stand for it. I'll be indiscreet too."

We left immediately after that—Barrett Edmonds promising to come up the next afternoon to try my new songs; and Alice and I making an appointment to lunch at Rappelye's again in a few days.

Tomorrow—Sandra Finds Life a Puzzle.

YOU NEED NOT SUFFER FROM CATARRH

But You Must Drive It Out of Your Blood.

Catarrh is annoying enough when it chokes up your nostrils and air passages, causing difficult breathing and other discomforts. Real danger comes when it reaches down into your lungs.

This is why you should at once realize the importance of the proper treatment, and lose no time experimenting with worthless remedies which touch only the surface. To be rid of Catarrh, you must drive the disease germs out of your blood.

Splendid results have been reported from the use of S. S. S., which acts on the catarrh germs in the blood.

GREENE COUNTY GROCERS

to the Local Consumers

How many men and women in this community buy their groceries from the Coffee and tea wagons and the out of town mail order houses? Funny when you think of it that men and women will play the game of Blind Man's Bluff with their money. You don't have to shop blindfolded unless you want to. THE OUT OF TOWN Houses, THE COFFEE AND TEA PEDDLER, started the big game of BLIND MAN'S BUFF, but it is a dangerous game to play in our community. It isn't a fair game. It isn't fair to ourselves. IT ISN'T FAIR TO OUR COMMUNITY. IT ISN'T FAIR TO OUR HOME GROCER. He is helping us, co-operating with us, and working with us, to upbuild and improve all our home institutions. Then, let us play fair with ourselves, and with him—let us give the home merchant the first chance. That is all he asks. The only road to real economy and safety is a road that leads to the LOCAL GROCER. Taking chances and buying for premiums is an expensive habit, and sooner or later leads the purchaser into disappointment. Something for nothing is a part of the Game of Blind Man's Buff. YOUR LOCAL GROCER SHOULD NOT BE CONSIDERED JUST AS AN ORNAMENT IN YOUR COMMUNITY BUT AS A NECESSITY, AND AS SUCH SUPPORTED TO THE GREATEST EXTENT.

ECONOMIC WASTE IN LONG DISTANCE BUYING

The only road to real economy is the road that leads to the Home Town. This is the first commandment in community development. Whenever we pass up our own community and send an order away from home we break this commandment by one stroke of the pen. Give your home dealer the chance to fill that order. Given the same conditions, he can beat any out-of-town house in the country. The Long Distance route is the road to waste, over-buying and false economy. This cartoon shows vividly the economic waste in long distance buying.

MRS. G. H. FULLER DIES AS RESULT OF AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Mrs. Alice Fuller, aged 52, wife of G. H. Fuller, president of The Fuller Ice Cream and Soda Water Company, died at Grant Hospital, Columbus, at 4:30 Monday morning, of a fractured skull and other injuries which were received when the Fuller machine in which she was riding with her husband and other relatives was struck in the rear by an auto truck, which caused it to turn turtle on the National highway near Reynoldsburg about noon Sunday.

Mr. Fuller received a fractured arm. Mrs. Edward Cary aged 30, of Ashtabula, Mrs. Fuller's sister-in-law sustained a dislocation of the left shoulder and her 12 year old daughter has minor injuries. All the injured were taken to Grant Hospital.

The party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Carey and their two children, were on their way to Zanesville, to visit the two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Fuller; Mrs. Wm. Morris and Mrs. E. T. Broughton. The Cary family had been spending a week at the Fuller home and Mrs. Fuller's mother, Mrs. Cary whose home is also in Ashtabula, had accompanied them here, but remained in Xenia for a longer visit. She was almost prostrated from shock upon learning of the accident.

Robert and Lawrence Fuller went to Columbus after news of the accident was telephoned to Xenia and were with their mother when she died. Robert remained in Columbus to make arrangements for bringing home the body of his mother.

Mrs. Fuller is survived by her husband and nine children: Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Broughton of Zanesville; Robert, Lawrence, Jay, Dorothy, Mary and Donald of Xenia, and Paul of Wilmington. She was a member of the First Baptist church.

Big Lot of Hay Fever Jokes

But Kentucky Man Says—"People Who Belong to Hay Fever Colony are Kidding Themselves."

Wouldn't Be Any Rose or Hay Fever if Simple Home Remedy Was Given a Chance.

"Yes, there's a real NINETY-NINE per cent effective remedy for hay or rose fever," frankly states a druggist in a prosperous Kentucky city. "But I don't expect anyone to believe me, because the treatment is so easy and the cost not worth mentioning."

"The annual crop of hay-fever jokes would be mighty scarce if people would get an ounce of Mentholized Arcline and by just adding water that has been boiled make a pint of liquid that will prove a real help to all who suffer."

"Many of my hay-fever friends tell me that by starting to gargle and sniff or spray the nostrils a few times a day the expected severe attack often fails to appear and in cases where it does show up it is very mild and does not annoy."

"The Better Class of Pharmacists" who dispense Mentholized Arcline say it will greatly modify any attack even when taken three or four days after hostilities begin.

Go to a real live druggist when you get ready to make a pint.

7 A DAY FOR 7 DAYS

If Your Nerves Are Shaky Because of Over-Indulgence in Tobacco or Alcohol or by Excess of Any Kind, Bio-Feren is What You Need Right Away.

Don't grow old before your time, don't let nervousness wreck your happiness or chances in life. The man with strong, steady nerves is full of vigor, energy, ambition and confidence. You can have nerves of steel, firm step, new courage and keen mind by putting your blood and nerves in first-class shape with mighty Bio-Feren, a new discovery, inexpensive and efficient.

Men and women who get up so tired in the morning that they have to drag themselves to their daily labor will in just a few days arise with clear mind, definite purpose and loads of ambition.

All you have to do is to take two Bio-Feren tablets after each meal and one at bedtime—7 a day for 7 days—then reduce to one after each meal until all are gone.

Then if your energy and endurance haven't doubled, if your mind isn't keener and eyes brighter, if you don't feel twice as ambitious as before, any druggist anywhere will return the purchase price—gladly and freely.

Bio-Feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, run-down, weak, anemic men and women ever offered and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

The Mute Messenger

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

Ben Dymond was out of a job and there was a hungry wife and child at home. He had wandered the streets all the morning without meeting with the least encouragement as to employment. Foolsore, down-hearted, faint from the want of food, he was resting on a refuse box in front of a hotel when a bareheaded man in overalls came out on the sidewalk, observed his woe-begone appearance, and accosted him.

"Ready for a two hours' task?" he inquired incidentally.

"Ready for two years, night and day, so the home folks have regular meals!" responded Ben with alacrity.

"Well, there's fifty cents an hour in it," volunteered the other. "Come on. Hello! no drink in this, I hope?"

"Never touch that," said Ben. Then with a weary smile: "Nothing except a couple of crusts since last night," for he had staggered and his companion had mistaken the cause.

"Very well, you come with me," he directed. "The meal will be a good one, and thrown in with the dollar."

Ben was taken to the roof of the hotel, where he was given a carpet heater and a pile of possibly a hundred small rugs. He attacked them with a will. In an hour and a quarter by the clock he had completed his task and his employer handed him a dollar bill.

"I haven't worked the full time," submitted Ben.

"No, but you've done two hours' average work, all the same. Now perhaps there's some odd work for tomorrow. You stay here till I hunt up the manager and find out."

Ben was nothing loath as to seating himself on the cornice and resting up. He became aware of a commotion in the street, and peered four stories down. Across the street was a great skyscraper, and in its shade a crowd was gathered, eyes fixed skyward. Ben followed their gaze. Dangling from a telephone wire was a pigeon.

The pigeon had struggled into flying position, fluttered up and took off in a violent dash. The string held and the bird was jerked back to helplessness. Women grabbed the arms of men they did not know and implored them to "do something!" Wordless prayers seemed concentrated upon anxious, sympathetic lips. Again the well-nigh exhausted pigeon fluttered up, drew the string loose, tumbled wearily through the air and dropped inert at the feet of the interested and pitying Ben. Its eyes were open, its breath came in spasms. As he took it into his hands and caressed it Ben noticed a small metal disk surrounding one foot. Clearly traced upon it were the words: "Carrier dove, registered A 32. Property of Arthur Blake, 32 Webster terrace. Return or report, at owner's cost."

The man who had hired Ben showed up to tell him that he could come to work on the morrow. He stared at the pigeon and listened with interest to Ben's explanation.

"It must be a bird of some value," he said. "Webster terrace? That's only a mile from here. I say, you stand a good chance of a reward for taking it to this Arthur Blake."

"I'll do just that," declared Ben.

"Not that I want the pay, but the poor, gentle thing's heart is beating like a trip hammer," and he placed it within his coat and was on his way with his new adventure at once. His destination proved to be a handsome mansion on a select thoroughfare. The servant who admitted him led him to a room where sat a stately old lady, who took the bird from Ben's hand and held it as lovingly to her breast as though it was some cherished child.

She asked Ben a number of questions, thanked him for his restoration of the bird, and explained that it was a valued pet of her son. She took up her purse and insisted on Ben accepting a $5 bill, and lifting a wing of the pigeon drew forth a compact little wad of paper secured to a tiny metal ring, opened it, perused it, and read aloud the words: "Come back and—forgive!"

Later Ben knew that this missive was from the former fiancé of Arthur Blake, a Miss Ethel Brent. They had quarreled over a trifle. Blake had been disappointed in receiving no word from his petulant love and had just left the house bound on a long journey. The old mother arose to her feet deeply excited. She asked Ben to hasten to a certain railroad depot, to board the Sunset Limited, to hand to her son the little note and explain how he had come by it.

Just as the train was about to pull out Ben sped by the gate guard, swung to a rear parlor coach, made a voluble inquiry, placed in the hands of a handsome young man the tiny note, and both left the train just as it was moving out. As they parted, and Arthur Blake hastened to seek his contrite sweetheart, he pressed upon Ben half the contents of his purse, sufficient to keep the wolf from the door for many a day to come.

FOUND DEAD LYING IN POOL OF BLOOD RESULT OF HEMORRHAGE

Lying in a pool of blood, the result of a hemorrhage from the lungs, Michael Edgeworth, 48 years of age, a well known plumber, was found dead at 1:15 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the rear of the grocery of R. A. Chambliss on Cincinnati avenue.

Fifteen minutes before his body was found by Mr. Chambliss, Mr. Edgeworth had joined a group of men who were sitting on a bench in front of the Chambliss grocery, and after chatting with them for a while, he asked Mr. Chambliss if he could buy some cigars. Stepping into the grocery Mr. Chambliss secured the cigars and gave them to Mr. Edgeworth. A moment later he left the group of men, and walked around the building.

Having business at the rear of the store a short time later, Mr. Chambliss found the man's body lying near the rear step. It is supposed that he fell while trying to reach the step to sit down, and that the severe hemorrhage caused his death.

Chief of Police Canaday was notified, and he called Coroner R. L. Haines and Undertaker R. M. Neeld. The body was removed to Mr. Neeld's office where the coroner viewed it, and later taken to the home.

Mr. Edgeworth spent all of his life in Xenia. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Catherine Edgeworth of 35 Locust street, and one brother, Thomas J. Edgeworth, manager of the restaurant at the Union Station in Dayton. Two other brothers are said to have died in the same manner, a number of years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 Tuesday morning at St. Brigid's church.

Disagreed With Him.

Bert could not eat porridge without feeling distressed. Scolded one day by his sister for speaking rudely to her girl friend, he said: "I just can't help it, sis; she affects me 'zactly like porridge."

JOHN NEWLON OF MANSFIELD PAYS A WARM TRIBUTE

Tells His Druggist How Quickly Nerv-Worth Bettered Health of Self and Wife.

The improvement was so marked that Nerv-Worth is now a staple in the Newlon medicine chest. Mr. Newlon told Mansfield's Nerv-Worth agent about it:

Tawse Pharmacy:—My wife was under a severe nervous strain for over five years and, as a result, had become extremely nervous. She took a good many different remedies with very little success until recently we both started to take Nerv-Worth, myself occasionally having dizzy spells, resulting from a sunstroke. We both took one bottle of (Nerv-Worth), and were greatly benefited and can recommend it most highly to anyone. We keep a bottle at all times.

Yours truly,

JOHN NEWLON,

Mansfield, O.

MRS. W. A. SHAPPEE DIES IN PASADENA

Mrs. W. A. Shappee for years a resident of Xenia, died last Thursday at her home in Pasadena, Cal., according to word which has been received by friends in this city. The cause of her death is not known here.

Dr. and Mrs. Chappie moved to Pasadena from this city in 1915, making the change in climate for the sake of the health of both, as neither were well. Dr. Shappee has been ill but his health is now improved.

Mrs. Shappee is survived by her husband and a sister, Miss Caroline Close, of Cincinnati, who is a deaconess in the Methodist Episcopal church, and a brother whose home is in Lioga, Penn.

TWO NEW MEMBERS FAIR BOARD ELECTED

Two new members were elected on the Greene County Fair Board this year by votes cast by family ticket holders during the Fair which was held last week.

The two new members are, N. N. Hunter, Silvercreek township, prominent hardware and automobile dealer of Jamestown, who succeeds J. Walker Binegar, whose death took place last week, and Brant Bell of Xenia township, farmer, who will succeed R. E. Bryson.

Grant Miller of Beaver Creek township, and J. H. Lackey, of Ross township, were both re-elected to serve on the board. In the neighborhood of 400 votes were cast.

EAST END NEWS

All members of Xenia Glee Club, please be on hand for rehearsal tonight at 8:30 p. m. at St. John's A. M. E. Church.

Miss Mollie Corbin is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Susie Tremble, in Cleveland. She expects to return the latter part of August.

Miss Lucretia Jones is visiting her Mrs. Carrie Brown of Pittsburg, has returned home after a week's visit with her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Brown.

Mrs. Sarah Asbury and granddaughter, Nettie Asbury, are visiting Prof. Maxwell and wife in Spencer, Ind. Mrs. Maxwell is a daughter of Mrs. Asbury.

The many friends and acquaintances of Mrs. Anna Grant were shocked and saddened by the news of her death, Saturday. But a very few people knew that she was out of the city. She left her home in this city last Monday and went to Columbus. Tuesday morning she was operated on at Grant Hospital in that city. Tuesday evening some of her intimate friends here received word that she rallied from the operation and was doing nicely. Saturday morning the sad news that she had died came as a great shock to the community. She was the widow of Rev. H. A. Grant. She leaves a stepson, Roland, and a small daughter, Helen. Prior to her marriage her home was in Springfield and it is probable that her funeral and burial will be there, as her husband is buried there. She was a member of First A. M. E. Church of this city.

Mr. J. C. Johnson, undertaker, and his popular lady assistant, Mrs. Lena Garrett, were united in marriage by Rev. P. A. Nichols, Saturday. They left at once for Millersburg, Ky., where they will spend a few days honeymoon with relatives of the bride.

JAMES W. FAULKNER COMMENTS ON THE FOOD SITUATION

James W. Faulkner, the well-known political writer for the Cincinnati Enquirer, handed Hugo N. Schlesinger, former Xenian, now prosecuting attorney of Franklin county, a bouquet in his political column Sunday and incidentally took a rap at a majority of the other prosecuting attorneys in the state. Faulkner takes the position that there are more than enough laws on the statute books now to send the food profiteers to prison for life and declares that the trouble is that the most of the prosecuting attorneys in the state do not pay the least attention to them. He comments on the food situation as follows:

"This jabber and droll about new laws is all tommyrot. The statute books fairly are bursting with old enactments, and, as pointed out frequently, they are rusty with non-use. Neither grand juries or prosecuting attorneys pay the slightest attention to them and it is only during a crisis such as exists now that they are given a thought. Even now brash young prosecuting attorneys are sneering at the movement of cheaper food. They are either too lazy to enforce the multitude of laws, or, like the average politician in office, they are too cowardly to enforce them.

"The gent who represents Ross county is said to pretend he thinks the uprising is all a joke and he is said to have expressions of sarcastic pity for those who are foolish enough to fall for the public hue and cry.

"Partisan editors of the variety known as 'smart aleck' in imitation of the Ross County agent, are writing innuendoes aimed at the head of the Administration and are informing their readers that the whole rousk kicked up is to assist a presidential campaign. Where these editors are incompetent to write proper pieces the State Advisory Committee kindly is furnishing them with the stuff, highly gingered and hot if the mouth.

"These are some of the reasons why protective statutes are rendered absolutely nugatory, and why the criminality inclined proceed with their reprehensible employments. If conditions were reversed and the minority had the government the present majority would be found doing the same things, namely, endeavoring to make the prosecutions a failure in order to prevent the other side reaping any political glory or advantage.

From these circumstances the voters ought to be able to draw a certain conclusion, which is that it is a true saying in that 'God helps those who help themselves.' If they are going to place their dependence upon their hiring public officials they are, indeed, forlorn and castaway. All that is necessary is to get after 'em and keep prodding 'em. It didn't require the General Assembly, Lieutenant Governor Clarence Brown or Attorney-General G. Price, yea and not even Governor James M. Cox to enable Hugo Schlesinger, prosecuting attorney of Franklin County, to discover that a local packing company had tons of smoked meat stowed away in a cold storage warehouse long beyond the period allowed by law.

The meat was there illegally for months, before the tempest of indignation burst. Nobody had inspected the plant, although the law says that this shall be done, and there are gent on the pay roll whose duty it is to see that it is done. The minute Schlesinger, fresh from the conference of prosecuting attorneys set the machinery in motion the packers were in a pickle. This performance could have been staged months ago, and the reason why it wasn't is the selfsame reason why the individual citizen must find it to be a necessity to whirl in and do some lifting himself in order that the great burden may be thrown off.

"What the citizen must do, too, is to see that the politicians don't string him about the lack of law. Let 'em enforce what they have on hand and not sit down like a lazy coon dog, waiting for a new authority."

Taking a Plebiscite.

Plebiscite is a political term borrowed from the French, meaning a vote of all the electors in a country taken on some specific question. It is from the Latin plebiscitum, a decree of the plebs, or law made by the common people, and is somewhat similar to the referendum. A notable example of the use of the plebiscite in French history was in 1852, when the memorable coup d'etat of 1851 was confirmed and the title of emperor was given to Napoleon III.

Don't burn good fuel
in a poor stove

Its a useless waste of good fuel and a needless extravagance to try to burn it in a poor stove. It is absolutely wrong to expect good food to supply energy, vitality, health and happiness if your stomach won't absorb and assimilate it. If you cannot eat with enjoyment, if your food does you no good, if food distresses rather than benefits, then you have indigestion or dyspepsia. The best remedy to use is PEPSINCO.

Ask your druggist—he sells and recommends Pepsinco.

AUGUST.

(Philadelphia Ledger.)
Shorn of their wealth, the harvest fields
Lie silent in the sun;
Weary beneath the languorous haze,
Their generous labor done.

The dreamy river trails its length
Across the breadth of gold;
Slow-creeping, till it finds its way
By cedars grim and old.

Gone are the lillies, but the leaves
Float sullen on the stream;
Where water grasses gleam.

The flashing pickerel snaps the fly
Which careless skims the wave;
And circles widening to the shore
The rooty margins lave.

The turtle warming on the log
Prolongs its length of days;
Unheeded of the empty nest
The puffing cattail sways.

Now, slow before the lowering sun
A lucid vapor spreads,
Drifting in hazy coolness o'er
The mallow's rosy heads.

Nature holds close and tenderly
Her drowsy children dear;
This is her hour of full content—
Her "rest-time" of the year!

FOUR OF COUNTRY'S GREATEST MEN ARE CAMPING IN THE ADIRONDACKS

By George R. Holmes.

Somewhere in the Adirondack Mountains, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Out of the inky blackness that hangs like a shroud over the Adirondacks these nights there blooms nightly along some quiet mountain stream a ghost-like tented village. Its populace is exclusive, being limited to Thomas A. Edison, Henry Ford, John Burroughs and a few of their closest friends.

Eight tents, almost transparent with the incandescent lamps inside them, stood out last night like so many jewels against the velvet blackness of the forest on all sides. In the center of the tiny village a campfire burned, for it is nippy in the mountains these nights and around the fire nearly 50 miles off the main line of any railroad where mails don't reach, where telegrams are undelivered and where there are no telephone lines, sat the distinguished trio.

Sato, a wizard-like Jap, moved swiftly about the camp, cleaning up the supper things.

"I see," said Henry Ford, holding up to the fire light a two days' old paper which he had picked up in some forgotten village, "where there's a big rumour over the cost of living down in Washington."

John Burroughs, the naturalist, who is 81, nodded affirmation. Thomas A. Edison, who is well past 70, dozed in his camp chair and said nothing. The electrical wizard has slept, members of the famous camping party say, on an average of 15 hours out of every 24 hours on the trip.

"They'll settle that problem some of these days," continued Ford, "and like all things the solution will be easy when it comes. What the world needs is men who know how to do things."

"It's a great problem, living these days," said the famous naturalist. "I can remember when I was a boy we used to buy things in bulk. They were cheap then. Nowadays everything comes wrapped up in a fancy package. That's one reason why the cost of living is so high."

"Yes," agreed Ford, "but before the world can cut down the cost of living, it must eliminate the waste in its production. We are years behind in our methods of farming. There are eight million farms in the United States and there are not more than 75,000 farm tractors and 60,000 of those I made myself. The use of horses and cows is a wasteful method. Eliminate the horse, the cow and the pig."

"What are going to do for meat?" came a voice from the fireside.

"You don't need it," was the reply.

"The world would be better off without meat. Its 70 per cent ashes anyway. Milk can be manufactured chemically. Every animal used on the farm these days is a waste of time."

"You can't eliminate horses and cows and pigs," interposed Mr. Burroughs, stroking his patriarchal beard, "and speaking of wasting time reminds me of a story."

"A man once went to a farmer with a patent hog fattener. He said it would make hogs fat in short order. But the farmer thought the old method of feeding grain was the better way."

"But," said the salesman, "its such a waste of time!"

"What's time to a hog?" said the farmer.

"The reason the cost of living is so high nowadays," said the venerable Californian, "is that we have too many luxuries. There is too much about our lives as lived today that is artificial. The luxuries of yesterday are the necessities of today."

"One of the reasons," said H. S. Firestone, who with his son is a member of the caravan de luxe, "is that too many people handle the stuff from the producer to the consumer. More efficient methods of distribution are needed."

"That's it," interjected Ford. "Take wheat for example. It's grown one place. It's shipped away off and ground. Then it's shipped back. And the consumer pays for all that unnecessary hauling. There is too much railroad traffic. Let the producer truck his crop into a nearby community and sell it there. Eliminate this expensive hauling. That's one thing that will bring this high cost of living down."

"I know one thing that I can do to bring it down," Mr. Ford went on. "If for the next four or five years I would devote all my time to developing the far tractor and put it on every farm in the United States it will bring down the cost of living. And I'm going to do it. It will cut down the work on a farm to 20 days a year. Twenty days is all that a farmer needs to work any way. He will some day. Now he works all the time and doesn't make any more money than he could than by working twenty days. His production is too high."

And they talked into the next day's plans. The Edison-Ford-Burroughs-Firestone vacation is a nomadic week now they have roamed through the Adirondacks. They have no place in particular to go and no set time to get there. They never know when the morning start is made, where they will camp that night. They will keep on going until they get tired and no one knows when that will be.

They agree upon a meeting place for late in the afternoon. Then they start. Mr. Edison usually leads. But if he sees an enticing road along the line he takes it. Ford and Burroughs may or may not follow, just as they choose. They gather at some agreed place and then look for a likely camping spot. And there is no dearth of such a spot in these mountains.

Their caravan consists of five cars, two heavy touring cars, two others especially designed to carry their general equipment and one general carry-all. On one of the cars is a storage battery which each night gives them electric light. It also carries a machine shop, compact and built into the door of the car.

Two chauffeurs serve as general handy men. They set up camp in an hour, electric lights and everything. Two ordinary gasoline stoves are set up. Sato, the efficient Jap, turns out meals that meet with wild approbation. Last night a raspberry short-cake was baked. Mr. Burroughs found the berries along the roadside and Sato did the rest. Every one takes a hand at the work. Yesterday visitors to the camp found the Detroit manufacturer with sleeves rolled up engaged in washin "tin things," suds streamed down his shirt front. Over against one of the cars Mr. Edison had set up a mirror and was shaving himself. Burroughs was wandering around in the woods looking at the trees and shrubs.

MANY BEER SAMPLES ARE TO BE ANALYZED

For the purpose of determining whether beer sold in this section of Ohio contains more or less than one-half of one per cent of alcohol, chemical analyses are being made in the federal pure food and drugs laboratory in Cincinnati.

A large number of samples have been collected by federal agents of the Department of Justice in Cincinnati and other cities of the Southern Judicial District of Ohio, as well as in Kentucky, Indiana and Tennessee. It is understood Chief Leo B. Forst, of the federal laboratory, will be ready soon to submit a report of the tests made.

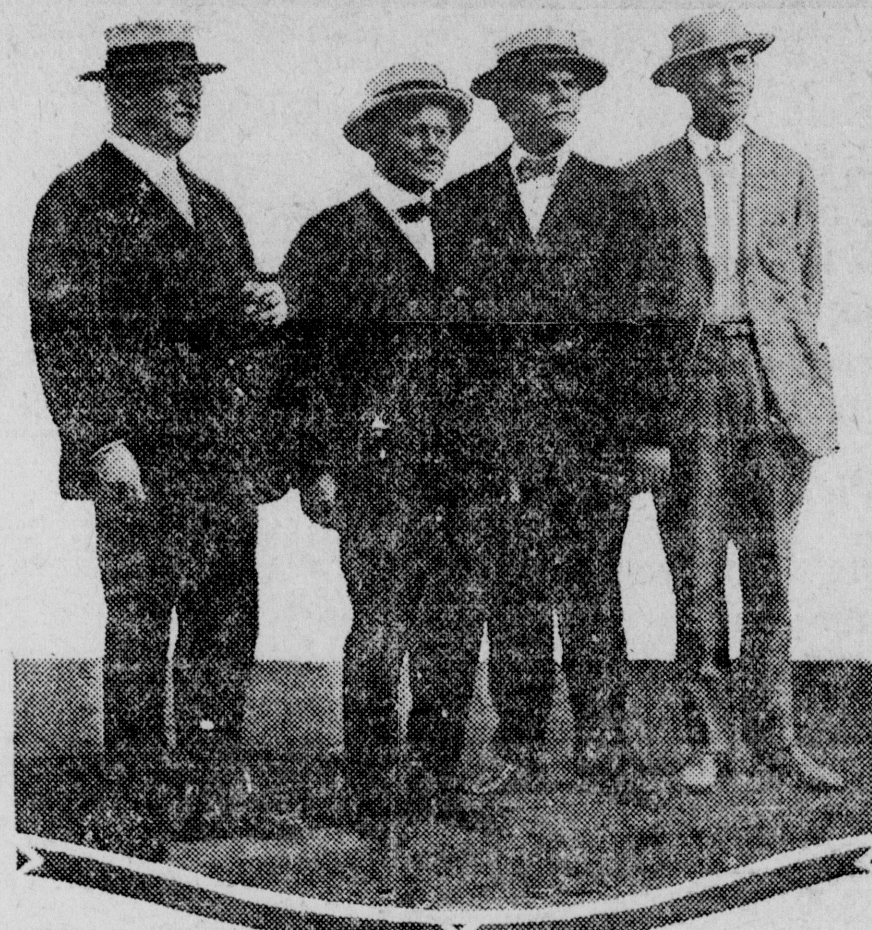

As the federal laws prohibit the manufacture of beer containing one-half of one per cent of alcohol, prosecutions may be in order if Dr. Forst's report indicates any of the samples have been found to contain more than the amount stipulated by law.

Samples of beer also are being collected by deputies from the office of United States Collector of Internal Revenue A. C. Gilligan. These are being forwarded to the department at Washington for analysis.

RAILROAD UNIONS START BIG FIGHT FOR NATIONALIZATION OF THE ROADS

Heads of railroad brotherhoods. Left to right: W. G. Lee of the Railway Trainmen; W. S. Carter of the Firemen and Enginemen; Warren S. Stone of the Engineers, and A. B. Garretson of the Conductors.

It is announced by the heads of the railway brotherhoods that they are a unit for the government ownership and joint control of the railways, and that they will take this question before the country at the next election. In the meantime they demand more pay or a reduction in the cost of living.

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles."

"So I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years experience is at your service.
